Are the disks perfectly readable on the PC? I can't imagine too much could be wrong with the IDE device if it works fine for CD-ROM etc. Are you sure that the Zip supports the DMA/PIO setting on that channel? Have you tried setting it to PIO-0? I think if a disk is busy when it is removed (as it would be if there are "stuck" locks on it), it is normal for this sort of behaviour. The icon remains, and Workbench doesn't see a need for a second icon when the same volume name is inserted into the same drive...
