

Subject: : Amigabounty

Topic: : AmigaBounty kind of an idea but HW aligned

Re: AmigaBounty kind of an idea but HW aligned

Author: : billt

Date: : 2009/3/11 0:44:10

URL:

@Slayer

Quote:

Your anticipated 10 month period is probably worse case scenario and granted could be a reality.

I would call 10 months for a hardware design, prototype, test, debug, respins, and finally production to be incredibly optimistic.

I've been working on my hardware design for about 5 years, and have yet to do a single PCB trace layout for it. Others in the PowerPC hardware universe are beginning to do something reasonably close to my idea, so I may try and make use of that someday, even if it's not exactly what I'd like. (Though what I'd like became impossible with the deaths of PA Semi and Uli Electronics, my second-best is still to me better than what I see happening out there) It'll be at least May before I can shell out the big bucks for an evaluation of the (IMNSHO) 3rd-best solution, according to that vendor.