I think there's light at the end of the tunnel now. Got in touch with Paypal via phone again and they actually looked at the documents I had provided them with and found that they had everything they needed. So case is sent to limitation team with a message of fast handling etc.

Reason I didn't want to set up another account with Paypal was that I didn't want it to be freezed suddenly because they could accuse me of circumventing their rules or something.

Just to make everything clear, ALL money sits safe in the Amigabounty association bank account in my local bank (Not Amagerbanken) and I hope to get paypal problems sorted this week.
