Easy workaround is close that Ringhio window before closing your app.

Except that it is easy to forget (or not even notice the Ringhio notification).... not to mention this shouldn't be an issue in the first place for something as important to the Amiga as Screens.

@Chris

So what does "Open/close automatically" do then? I thought it was a new feature for OS4.1, which automatically opened (and closed) public screens when you referred to them by name instead of using OpenScreen/CloseScreen (although I don't actually know how you would do that).

btw, I have downloaded and installed your little patch)

Please make sure to download version "r2", as this fixes problems with MPlayer among other things.
