

Subject: : Amigabounty

Topic: : Video editing software bounty?

Re: Video editing software bounty?

Author: : Troels

Date: : 2012/1/6 21:17:16

URL:

Quote:

Good to see the loaner systems are making a difference. The bounty could use a few more donations though.

Hans

Yes, it's nice that they are both in use. If I had just been better to advertise their availability Diego could have had a system much earlier but I thought people knew about it, well at least they're both in use now.

I'm sure the bounty will see more donations soon, it was just announced and didn't get the publicity the other bounty we just launched got(yet). Also for non-developers (such as myself) it's a bit easier to get why I should donate towards better visuals than an updated library. Both are of course important but it's (to me) a bit harder to sell the library bounty.

Btw. if the current avcodec.library bounty is successful Diego already agreed to move ahead with this:

<http://amigabounty.net/index.php?function=viewproject&projectid=87>