If the sources are partly "closed" than fab or some other dev can have them on a publically not (and only to invited co-devs) available source tree.

This way the maintainer of that tree has the full control of who did what and when to the source...

Add ONE bounty to whatever system and the tree maintainer could easily (if he would) share the bounty bound to the work done by him and the co-devs.

I'm thinking github and sourceforge here...

Talking of which, is a new MUIOWB due soon?
